SLTF The Silver Editorial – A Nostalgic 18-Font Serif Typeface

This expanded version of one of my best-selling serif typefaces has been fully redrawn and upgraded into a comprehensive typographic system with 18 fonts in total (9 weights + italics). Designed for beauty and built for function.

As a font designer, I'm always searching for that perfect balance between the familiar and the unexpected. With The Silver Editorial, I believe I've found it. This fresh editorial serif draws inspiration from the iconic typefaces of the 1980s, yet exudes an undeniably modern spirit.

Remember the bold, expressive serifs that graced the pages of high-fashion magazines and cutting-edge publications in the 80s? The Silver Editorial channels that vintage charm while pushing the boundaries of contemporary design. I've taken the cool confidence of those typefaces, stripped away any excess, and sharpened them for the digital age.

USING LIGATURES & ALTERNATES

USING ALTERNATES & LIGATURES IN CANVA

Canva unfortunately doesn't support ligatures and all the alternate letters. It's not really their fault because web browsers in general don't support them either. However, there is a workaround that works in most of the cases. I use Creative Fabrica's tool called FontCloud <https://www.creativefabrica.com/fontcloud/>

It works great for using glyphs in artwork! It is not an app, but the website works perfectly. FontCloud uploads your font and shows you each individual character, you can copy the glyph onto your clipboard. Working side by side you can easily paste glyph's into your text box using the same font in Canva.

Thank you all!
